The diagram illustrates the layout of the NG-S3411 handset faceplate. It features a 3x3 grid of buttons at the top: buttons 7, 8, and 9 with their respective letter groups (pqrs, tuv, wxyz); a row with call, zero, and hash buttons; and a row with speaker, mute, and microphone buttons. Below these are three rectangular buttons labeled 'Button 1', 'Button 2', and 'Button 3'. Underneath these are three corresponding rectangular areas for 'Button 1 Label', 'Button 2 Label', and 'Button 3 Label'. At the bottom left is a small icon of a handset. To its right is a large circular display area with a vertical line through the center, and a small rectangular icon to its left.
