

Fonax certifies interoperability with VTech ErisStation conference phones

Affordable VTech SIP conference phones to integrate with Fonax Enterprise Systems and Fonax Video Presence

Miami, Fla. – Nov 13, 2017 – Fonax, in partnership with VTech Communications, Inc., a global leader and manufacturer of professional SIP-based communication devices, has completed interoperability certification of VTech ErisStation® conference SIP phones.

VTech conference phones an excellent fit for FONAX'S ultra-secure and encrypted unified communication SOLUTIONS, designed for companies of up to 2,000 users.

"Fonax's cost-effective IP PBX solutions work with VTech SIP phones to ensure businesses stay in control and experience clear calls. VTech understands the importance of integrating high-quality systems to meet the needs of customers around the world," said Chad Collins, vice president of sales, Americas, VTech Communications, Inc.

VTech ErisStation conference phones scale from small offices to large conference rooms and can help businesses improve their meetings, thanks to innovative wireless mics. The VCS752 features Bluetooth® wireless technology for hands-free calls and connectivity to headsets and mobile devices. For large meetings, participants can pair up to three VCS850 Expansion Wireless Speakerphones to the VCS752 for increased volume and microphone pickup.

"We are very happy with our interoperability with VTech. This will provide a key component to our Fonax product line, enabling us to provide world-class HD sound and professional communication features," commented Darwin Roach, Fonax Chief Executive Officer. "Thanks to the support and teamwork from VTech, we can guarantee full interoperability of these phones with Fonax Enterprise Systems and Fonax Video Presence. We can offer flexibility, style and expansion to our corporate and government customers."

Fonax key customers have been expecting a solution like this one. Fonax and VTech will continue working together to provide innovative professional solutions.
